Re: Universal v. Nintendo

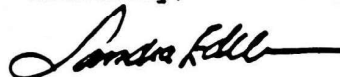

Dear John:

In conjunction with Universal's supplementation of its responses to Nintendo's interrogatories and document production requests, I am enclosing a group of documents supplementing requests made at the first deposition of Steve Adler for (1) internal documents at Universal relating to "Donkey Kong" and (2) memoranda relating to the marketing or merchandising of "King Kong." (See letter of Shelley O'Neill to Mary Faucher, dated January 4, 1983).

One of the enclosed documents, a memorandum dated June 18, 1980 from Joseph DiMuro to Sidney Sheinberg, was previously identified as a document we were withholding because it was protected from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege. (See letter of Mary Faucher to Shelley O'Neill, dated February 24, 1983.) We have reconsidered our position as to this document and are waiving the privilege with respect to this document only. The production of this memorandum shall not be construed as a waiver of the attorney-client privilege with respect to any other document or communication.

At the deposition of Loretta Sifuentes, you made a request for the production of "licensing Newsletters" sent out by Merchandising to prospective licensees. In response to this request, I am enclosing copies of all such letters that we were able to locate.

Sincerely,

Sandra Edelman
